Australia Pacific LNG's new gas deal with Santos to benefit domestic manufacturer

Australia Pacific LNG has announced it will supply an additional 10 petajoules of natural gas to Santos in 2020 and 2021.

The gas supplied by Australia Pacific LNG will be used to meet some of Santos' Queensland commitments, freeing up additional Moomba gas for a South Australian manufacturing customer.

"We're delighted to be supplying more gas into the domestic market and as a result, helping to support manufacturing jobs in South Australia," said Australia Pacific LNG Chief Executive Officer, Warwick King.

"This is yet another example of Australia Pacific LNG offering customised solutions to fit the unique requirements of domestic buyers," Mr King said.

This new contract increases Australia Pacific LNG's total domestic contracted supply commitment to over 350 PJ for 2020 and 2021 representing more than 30 per cent of total east coast domestic demand for each year.

Australia Pacific LNG is the largest producer of natural gas on Australia's east coast, with a number of gas production facilities in southern Queensland.
